MRS.HERMAN WAS IN LOVE

DECLARES THAT SHE COULD NOT RESIST DR. STEMBEL'S ARDOR.

Testimony of Two Persons Presents an Anomalous Condition-Bound Over to Grand Jury.

Mr. and Mrs. Julius Herman, charged with blackmail and robbery, were given a preliminary hearing yesterday in Police Court and acquitted of the charge of robbery. They were held, however, on the other charge. Their bonds were fixed at $2,500 each. They were taken back to jail, as both were bound over to the grand jury.

Later Dr. Stembel was placed on and told of meeting the Herited the Herman home and had dinner with them. He related that he was invited by Mrs. Herman to call on her last Thursday night. He said he accepted, thinking that her husband would be there also. The State did not try to strengthen its case as to the robbery of Stembel. Stembel claimed be the Herman house, but after leaving there in the column. missed it. He also said he had $72 in the watch pocket of his trousers when he went two silver dollars, the remainder of the money having been taken from him. Stembel was kept on the stand until court adtourned for dinner. When court reconvened n the afternoon Mrs. Herman was placed on the stand. During the morning she sat in front of her husband near their attorneys. She was attired in a long drab-col-

She was considered a good witness. She said that from her first visit to to her. Stembel ridiculed her husband, she said, saying he was a cripple and could not properly care for her. She said Stembel suggested the idea that they leave Indianapolis and later get married. She said she listened with interest to Stembel until she began to love him. He was so persistent in was turned, she declared. She admitted having been intimate with Dr. Stembel on several occasions both at his office and at her home. Mrs. Herman said that each time she visited Dr. Stembel's office they had either whisky or champagne. On one occasion, she said, he added $5 to the account of a prominent citizen and then gave her $5 with which to buy a bottle of wine. the result being that the dentist's patron, and not himself, paid for the wine.

After Mrs. Herman's testimony the attorneys argued the case, and acting Judge Connoway decided that the charge of robbery was not sustained and that he would acquit both of that charge. Mrs. Herman said she did not know anything about her husband forcing Stembel to sign a check. They were held on the charge of blackmai! and were both taken to jail to await grand jury action.

WILL GET THE SUBSIDY.

D. M. Parry Thinks the New Road to Switz City Is a Bluff. President D. M. Parry and Director W. E. Stevenson, of the Indianapolis Southern Railroad, have returned from a trip in Monroe county. The Indianapolis Southern is asking a subsidy of $100,000 from this county to aid in building the road, and will be voted. Mr. Parry says that the proposed line from here to Switz City, articles of incorporation for which were filed last week, seems to him to be a mere "bluff." He says it appears to be an effort to embarrass the promotion of the Indianapolis Southern. "But it will not phase us," said he. "We understand our own situation too well, and we believe before we get through we will provide a first-class road in the Indianapolis Southern.

Patrolman Lewis Montgomery yesterday rescued Charles Wolf from the canal. Wolf who was slightly intoxicated, wanted to catch a mess of fish. He was not supplied with the necessary tackle, yet he decided he would have the fish. Near West Twelfth street he stood for a while watching a school of the finny tribe swimming near the bank. The desire for fish overcame Wolf's judgment and he jumped into the water and succeeded in grabbing two fish. Mr. Parry and Mr. Stevenson feel that it He clung to his catch and made no attempt to get out of the water, which was about two and a half feet deep. Wolf apparently did not mind getting his clothes wet or care whether or not he drowned as long as he had the fish.

Montgomery, who was coming down Twelfth street, saw Wolf standing in the water and went over to see what he was doing. Wolf saw Montgomery opproaching and began to grin. Suddenly the fish slipped from his hands and he dived under the water in an effort to recover them. The policeman jumped into the water and grabbed Wolf before he got farther into the stream. Wolf did not want to be taken away from the water without catching more fish. While Montgomery stood holding him and trying to get him out of the canal a young colored boy came along and Montgomery asked for his assistance. The boy waded out into the canal and helped bring Wolf to the bank. Wolf lives at 628 West North street.
